From an Old English medical charm, — Wid Færstice

Wid Færstice a medical charm dating back to the late tenth or early eleventh century.

This charm highlights a convergence of consciousness, faith, and empirical knowledge.

The Spear

The spear serves as the root, grounding folklore in reality. It represents the first step towards the bridge of belief.

The Flight

The flight of the arrow symbolizes the projection of beliefs, both literally and metaphorically.

The Shield

The shield represent mental strength and the will to protect oneself — courage, in essence.

The Elves

The elves incarnate the other side of the bridge, the face of the invisible. Which offers reason to an otherwise nonsensical & hard to make sense reality.
